BIG BATTLE FLEET

To Be Added to Uncle Sam's Navy.

Washington, Oct. 12.—From fifteen to twenty fighting ships of the dreadnought and battle cruiser types, with a proportionate number of seagoing submarines, coast submarines, scout cruisers, destroyers and auxiliaries—enough to make a new American fleet—is contemplated by Secretary Daniels for recommendation as a five-year building program for the United States navy.

It is not known as yet what the plans of the navy are for the organization of the new fleet, but the general belief in naval quarters is that the plan of having a fleet in the Pacific will figure materially in the program.

The five-year naval program, when completed, would add, in addition to dreadnoughts and battle cruisers, nearly a hundred submarines, about seventy destroyers, several scout cruisers and a proportionate number of fuel and hospital ships.

The total cost of the proposed program for the first year, according to present plans, is estimated at nearly $248,000,000, or about $100,000,000 increase over last year. Just what construction should be provided for the first year has not been determined.

The Church and the Community

We are indebted to Rev. Geo. S. Mills of Bennington, Vermont, for the following article on "The Church and the Community." All who are interested in the churches and in social welfare organizations will be interested to read Mr. Mills' scholarly and practical article.

"Let me speak first of fitting our program for the new efficiency of the church to the exact place where we are—the need in our own village or town or city as best we are able to understand that need. The church in the community must be such a generator and distributor of ideas, sentiments, plans, as will change that community for the better physically and socially. If the community needs to be taught how to grow potatoes and corn, let the church see to it that the community is taught just that. If it needs to be taught what is wholesome recreation for young people and how to go about this, let the church be responsible for teaching just that. The end is not to grow potatoes, but to grow souls, not to train baseball teams, but to train character, but potatoes and baseball may come incidentally first; they are worth something in themselves as pure material satisfactions, and they may be worth more as means of approach to the moral ideal and as evidences of it. And this again is to say that the church must moralize and idealize its community by whatever simple, ordinary, first hand means are available.

"To make practical the gospel is always a community service. It is not to build up the church or glorify the church for its own sake. For their sakes I sanctify myself. We who are Congregationalists have been saying in recent years that we ought to be doing more on our own account. I am not so sure. Yes and no. Without underrating our denominational self-consciousness or the wisdom of improving it in this particular and that and studiously appreciating our distinct contribution to the sum total of modern Christianity, nevertheless we must be grounded in the cardinal principle of Jesus' great word, and as churches quite as much as individuals make ourselves strong and beautiful and good not for our own sakes but for the common life. We cannot save our corporate soul alone; and there is no reason in trying to preserve Congregationalism except as we are able to render it increasingly serviceable. In some of our rural communities it might be well for the Congregational church to die or to depart with its remnant to the body of some other church that discloses more vitality and has succeeded in making itself really useful. If in any community the faithful ones in a church of our order maintain it, let the other church which ought to die or be absorbed let them prove their faith by their works. The church, which has the right to live, is the church in fact which does live in the total interests of the community; the larger life of the people. It is not its historic antiquity which affords a church its chief claim to support. Nor is its cleverness in excitement of popular interest, as with moral sensations and revivals and crowds, going to win for it the priority.

"It is only ten years ago and a little more that a deacon of one of our strong New England churches in showing me about the property, opened the door into the new kitchen narrowly and apologized for having such an institution under the sacred roof—it was a concession to modernism that grieved him to the quick. How fast this employment of the sociable and the amusing is becoming our church task almost equally with attention to the spiritualities of the old days! Enter the latest parish house and where are you? Billiard tables, basket ball cage, gymnasium equipment, closets containing the regalia of youthful secret societies—truly it looks very secular. But did we not learn theoretically years ago under the tutelage of the new border of social prophets that there was

MAY REGISTER NOW FOR SECOND YEAR NIGHT SCHOOL

Sessions Begin November 1 and Continue 15 Weeks

REGULAR ATTENDANCE REQUIRED

Courses in Arithmetic, Reading, English, Mechanical Drawing and Cooking.

In order that Lent may not interfere with attendance at night school, the session will start Monday evening, November the first and it will continue for fifteen weeks, closing the Friday before Ash Wednesday.

It is important that the registration be completed before the first session so that all arrangements may be completed before the opening of the school. Mr. Mabrey is at the High School building each school day and he will be glad to register people at any time. He will also be in his office upon Friday evening, October 15 and Thursday and Friday evenings, October 21 and 22, at half past seven to register the people who may be unable to see him during the day. If possible, all persons who are planning to attend the school should register before October 25. No pupil will be admitted to any course after the completion of the first week of the session.

At the time of registering, each pupil will deposit one dollar for each course which he plans to take. This deposit, besides covering the cost of the books which are loaned to the students, is a token of the good faith of the person as regards his regular attendance. If a pupil is absent six times from any subject he will forfeit his dollar and he will not be allowed to continue in the work of that course. The deposit is smaller than is demanded in most towns.

It is clear that unless a student is very regular in his attendance in a course of thirty lessons he not only loses the benefit to be derived from the work but he also retards the work of the faithful pupil. If any pupil can not plan upon the necessary free nights for the work which he elects, it is not advisable for him to register. A tentative list of subjects has been made but is subject to change. No subject will be given unless ten people register for the work and if there is a demand for any subject which is not listed it will be given if it is possible to do so.

There will be two courses in Arithmetic. The first course will be an elementary one and it will cover Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication, Division, Decimals and Fractions. The second course in Arithmetic will be devoted entirely to the practical shop mathematics. The course is planned for any person who is employed upon machinery and who desires to learn the formulas and their application to machines, engines and boilers.

The course in Bookkeeping has been entirely reorganized. It is clearly evident that in a course of thirty lessons it is impossible to gain enough knowledge of the subject for an expert bookkeeper. For this reason this work has been planned to cover several years. During the first year, thirty lessons will be given upon the general principles of the subject. This course will be followed in successive years by a more detailed and advanced course of instruction. The work of the first year is adapted to two classes of students; besides the pupils who plan to complete the full work it will be useful to those people who desire to know something of elementary bookkeeping.

Two courses in Reading are planned. The first is an elementary one for beginners and the other is for the members of last year's class or for any person who can read a little and who desires to improve himself in the art.

In English, a course in composition and reading will be given. This work is of high school grade and after a review of the principles of grammar it will take up the fundamental principles of rhetoric.

In Mechanical Drawing, the course will offer thirty lessons in Machine Drawing. In this subject each pupil must supply himself with a set of drawing instruments and he will purchase the paper which is used in the work. The school authorities can supply a very good set of instruments for two dollars and fifty cents if an order is given to Mr. Mabrey before October 20.

The class in sewing will meet for two periods a week for one hour and

YEAR BOOK HAS BEEN ISSUED

Unusually Good Talent Has Been Secured for the Special Entertainments.

On Saturday afternoon The Fortnightly club opens its twenty-fourth season with a musicale and social tea at the Congregational chapel. A particularly fine yearly program has been planned by the executive board and an attractive year book issued this week which will be at the free library for distribution from Friday morning until Saturday noon.

The business meeting will begin at 3 o'clock, and as the first day is a very busy one for the treasurer and her assistant, it is hoped that members will plan to come early.

The program will be given by Madame Rubina Ravi-Brooks, mezzo-soprano, of Manchester, and Willard D. Lawrence, cellist of Troy, with Mrs. Albert W. Varney at the piano. The music will be followed by a club tea arranged under the auspices of the hospitality committee, the hostesses being Mrs. Arthur W. Rockwood and Mrs. George G. Bond. a half instead of the hour session as last year.

Cooking will be offered for the first time this year. The class will be limited to the first sixteen people who apply as there are no accommodations for a greater number. Each member of the course will deposit two dollars to cover the cost of materials. Any surplus will be returned at the end of the session.

Mr. Mabrey will offer a course in German. The work will be elementary and of an extremely practical nature. It will be given by the conversational method. The amount of work covered will depend upon the progress of the class.

As mentioned above, an early registration is imperative. There may be withdrawals or additions necessary. Books must be ordered in some of the courses if they are to be given. In some, two sections may be necessary. Kindly help to make the session a success by registering as early as possible so that the work can be commenced upon the first day.

SERBIAN VILLAGES TAKEN SOUTH OF BELGRADE

Bulgars Beaten in Attack on Railroad Junction

GREAT BRITAIN IS WORRIED

Allies Have Not Enough Troops Available to Meet Austro-German Advance.

Berlin, via London, Oct. 13.—The Austro-Germans have captured the Serbian villages of Zelenik and Topoluder on the heights south of Belgrade, according to the announcement of the war office today.

Athens, via London, Oct. 13.—The Serbians have repulsed a Bulgarian attack at Zailhar on the railroad between Nish and Troschou.

London, Oct. 15.—Serbia is now being attacked from the north and the east. The Austro-Germans, after their capture of Belgrade, have occupied Semendria on the Danube east of the capital and are advancing southward, while the Bulgarians have sent forces to endeavor to interrupt communications north and south of Nish, the wartime capital of Serbia, and attack the Serbs on the flank if they are driven back by the German Field Marshal von Mackensen.

The Serbian Legation yesterday received this telegram from Nish: Last night Bulgarians began an attack in the direction of Vlasina, (Vlasovine?). All attacks up to the present have been repulsed decisively. Vassolence is twenty-five miles south-east of Nish and eight miles from the Nish-Uskub Railroad.

The Berlin War Office bulletin yesterday announcing the taking of Semendria on Monday contained no further reference to the operations in Serbia. It merely said:

Our forward movement over the whole front is making good progress. Both the town and fortress of Semendria were taken yesterday.

The situation in the Balkans as the result of Bulgaria's attack is admitted to be a very serious one, not only for Serbia, but for the whole Allied cause. It is asserted that the Serbians are inflicting very heavy losses both on the Austro-Germans and Bulgarians, but with their army of about a quarter of a million men they are believed to have little chance of making any prolonged resistance against 300,000 of 400,000 Austro-Germans and probably 200,000 Bulgarians. They already are arranging for the transfer of the capital to Monastir, in the extreme southwestern corner of the kingdom.

Greece apparently has decided to ignore the treaty under which she is supposed to go to the assistance of her Serbian ally in case of an attack. Premier Zaimis having said when officially notified of the Bulgarian attack that Greece "remains in a position of armed neutrality."

London, Oct. 13.—The Austro-Germans having brought their offensive to an end except in the region of the Dvinsk, the Russians have recuperated wonderfully and are striking back. The Germans claim another success west of Dvinsk, but they are still fighting to the west of Ilukst. They also announce that Russian counter attacks have been repulsed south of the Pripiet River in Volhynia and in Galicia.

The Russians seemingly have entirely regained the initiative, especially in Galicia. Here it is reported from Petrograd that the Russians have won a victory on the River Stripa. The territory on which this battle was fought marks the extreme left of the Russian battle line. The Russian offensive on this front started several weeks ago when successes were won at Tarnopol and Trembowla. Austro-German reinforcements were rushed up and hard and incessant fighting has taken place since. General Count Von Bothmer commands the Austro-Germans in this sector and the German official report of today says that the positions of the "German troops" with him is unchanged.

The Russian reports say Russian forces pierced the Austro-German lines on the Stripa, taking prisoner more than 2,000 men and 60 officers and 4 guns and 10 rapid-firers, and that the Russian advance is being pushed vigorously.
